

Xiliu's Silly Pearl Part 3

Xil sat upright on a bed with his hinds planted over his cushion. He was a rather gleeful noodle today. He felt incredibly playful, every once in awhile looking down and giving a blep before grinding his hips to the sides and hearing a nice whimper in response from his cushion. Even with nothing between his hinds, his cushion was whining so needily. Xil found it just so cute how worked up his cushion got being pressed between his hips and rubbed against his soft fluffy rump. It was even more adorable to him how well it served his manifested body's every want. Whenever he wanted something to coil, it was there. Whenever he wanted a pearl, his cushion slid in and compacted marvelously well, which reminded him of something. Even with this one beneath him maybe he could tuck them up into him. "Hmmm where should I put my cushion away?" Xil thought to himself out loud. The fluffy noodle got an "mph?" in response from down between his cheeks. He knew it always got even more flustered with each new entrance he used to invite it within his body. He thought for a moment about where his cushion could go. There were so many options he could create. As he thought he gyrated his hips some more making a pleasant whimper vibrate into the plush aqua marine running right between his legs.

The sensation was pleasant and gave Xil an idea. He realized his seat's snout was in the perfect position to just press.

Dany's head was light. Xil had been toying with his emotions for hours now as they used him as their seat. He knew they could not even feel anything too pleasant back there. With a null hind space they were just grinding fluffy hide against him all this time purely out of the playful joy of feeling him whimper. Dany's entire body shivered to the feeling of such softness against him. Xil was so warm and comfy and yet used him as a mere seat, it was all just so much. His head moved with the little circling of Xil's backside, feeling their weight on him. The fluffy noodle was clearly holding themselves somewhat up. That soon changed when he felt the boy's hinds press down on him. At first it was a light push before he started to experience more and more of Xil's body on top of him. Dany began to wriggle and move his muzzle side to side against the plush fur on Xiliu's crotch as he heard a giggle and the fluffy noodle say, "Cute." Dany gave a few more wiggles with his head before he felt Xil give a forceful push down on him. Instead of being crushed, fur parted around Dany's snout as its tip was caught in something wet. He quickly realized he was being tucked into a slit. He did not know when Xil had made themselves a set of lower lips but it was clearly hungry. The slit was soon pushed down over the rest of his snout, wrapping it in sticky pink flesh. Dany made high pitched mumblings as his heart was pounding and his entire face was being hilted.

Xil leaned his head back as he felt Dany enter into him. They were making noises so much cuter now than before they were just completely irresistible for him to send deeper. He smiled and licked his lips as he thought about reducing this entire dragon to just a mere slit snack. His canal absolutely filled up with Dany's entire head, stretching it as he got his opening over their horns and down their neck. It was all just a silly little game to Xil, reducing Dany to food in so many ways. With his lower lips bringing a portion of Dany's neck in, they hit the sheets of the bed. Xil began to angle himself flat, laying in the bed so his opening had a better position to take the rest of Dany in. With his lips lined up with the rest of Dany's body he began to clench. The first clench pulled enough of Dany's neck in, feeling their nose bump his cervix. Xiliu clenched again but the little checkpoint could not take Dany. As a solution, Xil pulled his hinds up, causing Dany's neck to stick a little up too before pushing them back down over the silly dragon. Dany was squished slightly into the ring of the bump, but only slightly. He brought his hinds back up and lowered them again, still no luck. He raised his rump again, going even higher up. Dany's head left his body most of the way. With just their nose between his lips he shot his hinds back down slamming his cervix against their tip. Instead of bumping them he heard a pop as they slid right in and rapidly began filling his womb. So deep inside, Xil looked down at his rump as it engulfed Dany and said to them, "Oops, guess that's just another pearl." Hearing their silly whimpers in response to his teases about what his body will do to them, he clenched the rest of Dany between his hips. In his current position his swallowing was slowed. With every clench, just a little more of the other dragon was pulled behind his lips as he felt the familiar sensation of his belly expanding with Dany.

Dany squirmed as his legs kicked. His head was swimming with emotions in his new environment. It was all just so sticky and warm, every part of Xiliu intentionally formed by the hungry noodle to simulate the most authentic immersion into another's body. Despite that however, what came back out of Xiliu after digestion certainly was anything but simulated to be realistic, their digestive byproducts more so being stylized and personal. His head brought into the room, pink flesh blanketed over his nose. It was not long before he felt Xil's lips squish and pass by his shoulders, plunging him deeper into the womb. His head was pressed forward, running along the slick surfaces as he was made to feel the space Xil had prepared for him. The tenses pulled Dany in as he was being coiled into a ball. His new home was stretching more as he curled, Dany's imagination running wild over the nice and knocked up looking belly he must have been giving this boy. The thought made his face all tingly as his body continued to wriggle. He heard more cute giggles from Xil as their hungry body was reducing him to mere food. The playful noodle's voice could be heard through their belly as Dany's ears picked up on them saying, "S-Stop that, it tickles." His tail was wagging as his stomach was being pulled in. More than just his face felt tingly as he realized something was starting to happen to him in his hot little home. Dany said, "Hhhh, w-wait are you... are you..."

"Churning you down into a pearl? Well I do like the collection you've been providing me." Xiliu said enthusiastically. In return he got another silly needy whimper and felt a pleasant squirm in his nethers. "Hahaha, I said that tickles." Xil curled over himself and reached down to grab Dany's sides. With their movements restricted, he began feeding them in with his paws. Xil grabbed their sides and pulled them closer to him as they went down deep before letting go and reaching further down their body and pulling again. It was not long before Dany's entire body went into those lips from his paws' pushes. Now all that was left was their tail for him to finish off. It kept wagging as he sensed over Dany's thoughts through their water. He knew what they wanted, though he would give that to them a little later. For now he had one hold on the tail and another further up and began bringing his paws in. The way he moved his grasp on Dany's tail was like the reverse motions of climbing a rope. He kept going as he felt their body keep curling over itself in his womb to make room for their tail. He pushed and pushed until Dany's tuft was all that was left from his lips. The playful noodle gave another clench and felt his lower area get the last of its meal down. He looked over the bump Dany became, seeing their silhouette well defined in his belly. He gave a smile and said, "Yaaaay, I really got you tucked in there well." He rubbed his paws over his belly, gleefully satisfied. "Time to do some downsizing on your form."

Xil's words caused Dany to give a long drawn out, "Hhhhhhh." Before mumbling an onslaught of words, "Oh goooosh you're going to melt me and mush me down compact and..." His head was growing hot as he was starting to overheat. Even if his own processing was not already underway, Dany would be in a fever from the amount of want he had for Xiliu's insides. Xil's dragon compacting guts were all freshly formed just for him. Xiliu opened up their inner self now just to crush Dany down into a charming circumference of glistening smoothness. Dany could hardly take it. His feelings for his fate within this dragon's form was just too exciting. His body was starting to get weak from being so worked up. He knew he was going to pass out soon sheerly from his feelings, and when he did he would not wake up with this body of his being the same again. This boy was going to turn his current body forever into something beautiful of their own creation. Just that thought alone got him hyperventilating in the heat of this wet hearth. Giggles formed around him from Xiliu as he kept mumbling, his heart continuing to pound. Dany was becoming light headed as he felt his balled up body getting softer in Xiliu's womb. Everything was pressing tighter, the place getting wetter. Dany blepped, knowing he was being processed alive and anticipating what would be left of him once he came back out. He started to feel movements, his eyes widening as he was being squeezed by forces from outside. It felt almost similar to Xiliu sitting on him but there were two masses of pressure flanking him. Each time they squeezed, everything about Dany, including his thoughts, got soupier.

Xil had decided now was as good a time as any to give Dany what he had read they wanted. The noodle squeezed his hips together, squishing Dany and speeding up the process of compacting them down. He let his legs go before squeezing again. He noticed Dany losing a little bit of solidness each time he squeezed and released. Xiliu heard a cute higher pitched whimper that encouraged him to look down at his big belly and tease, "Aaaaw, you're doing great in there! Just a few more squeezes and you should be squishy enough." He gave another press with his legs as he felt the mush press around them. Dany was very much mostly melty. With a few more squeezes, the bulges got smoother until they lost all their definition. Dany was nice and disappeared, no longer recognizable as anything but a hefty meal claimed by this noodle. Though Xiliu did not need to eat, he ate others. Normally his body never changed the forms of those who wished to be captured by him. He just found Dany in particular to be so incredibly cute and ridiculous he could not help but press their entirety down into something so adorably small before his body pushed what remained of them back out. Xil squeezed again and the belly rapidly began to shrink down. First his belly was full of liquid, though that quickly condensed until he felt something solid and uniform inside. There was just a slight bump on his midsection now, hardly noticeable as his belly was otherwise smoothed down to its normal size. With Dany fully polished, Xil tensed his womb and felt something push through his cervix. His lips clenched as he felt something slide rapidly forward. The object passed through him, his lips holding onto something. Xil laid onto his back as his body passed Dany back out. His lower lips stretched open for a moment before he gave a light push. The object rapidly slid out with a bit of wetness on it as it came up on top of his lips before rolling off his crotch and onto the bed with a softened thwump. He looked down at the little thing with a gaping smile. He did not absorb a single bit of Dany, all of it turned to a dropping from his slit. Xil showed his canines as he saw the pretty ball of green, gold, and cream drenched in his slime lying beside him. He said, "Aw, you want to snuggle beside me Dany?" Before reaching down and grabbing the pearl in his paw. He held it up in his palm, feeling the lingering warmth radiate from it. "You are just so cute like that Dany. I think I'll keep you next to me for a bit." He complimented before placing the pearl beside his head and resting lazily. After a time he heard Dany step in. Xiliu reacted by saying, "And that includes you too." His tail reached over and coiled Dany before pulling them in and bringing their head next to his. Having made it possible to have a Dany on either side of him thanks to his hungry womb, Xiliu slept there rather proud of himself.