

Pluto's Safety..
Written by: Zaneisweird

For a giveaway winner!

It was an average day in the cave. Pluto was silently sleeping and Mercury was silently curled up. Today was the day they would need to leave so they can set off for a new home that'd be better than this one. However, he knew of the dangers that rested in this path so he'd have to somehow figure out a way to keep this good friend of his safe. How? He knows how. However.. Pluto may not like this, but he needs too. For his safety mainly!

Mercury slowly walked up to Pluto trying to avoid waking him up. He knew he'd have to do this for him, so he slowly opened his maw and started to swallow Pluto. He did his best to not wake him, which was going well, until around half way down the neck he was waking. As Pluto woke up he slowly looked around to see what was going on. Noticing the light blue and saliva dripping down he knew what was going on. HE WAS BEING EATEN!

Pluto didn't like this as he started to try and push out, but was blocked by the back of the cave. He tried pushing Mercury off but he ignored the attempts. He continued to swallow Pluto. His body slowly being pushed further into his destination being Mercuries stomach. Soon enough.. He landed into the stomach of Mercury as he smiled. Pluto immediately cried out. "Mercury! Let me out! This isn't funny!" He said to him as Mercury sighed.

"Pluto.. I'm doing this for your safety! Please know this! Today we are traveling and you'll get hurt if you're not in there! You'll be let out right after! Promise!" He promised Pluto as he started to walk out. Pluto didn't enjoy this but trusted Mercury into letting him out and they got there. Once Mercury got out and stretched out his wings, he started to take off, where he'd start to fly off to the cave. As he flew off Pluto was flipped around a bit as he was now upside down.

"Mercury! Be easier! You're gonna make me sick!" Pluto told him as he sighed. He silently waited in the stomach as Mercury chuckled to the comment. Time was going by during the flying as soon enough.. They arrived at a beautiful sparkly cave! Mercury slowly landed in front of it. "Prepare yourself, Pluto!"

He told him as he started to slowly force Pluto up and out of his stomach. Pluto was of course uncomfortable with the whole thing as he was slowly pushed through a tight space. Slowly as he came out of the esophagus of Mercury he was fully spit out. "See! We're here!" He smiled and licked Pluto. Pluto immediately ran inside scared. Mercury chuckled. "It's so cute when he's scared." He walked into the cave after Pluto to comfort him.

THE END!

THANKS FOR READING